

This is a clarification of the Gone West notice just sent regarding Captain Curtis Landry.

The notice should have stated that it contained additional information about Curtis's passing which occurred in February of this year. When the original notice was sent out last February, the information provided was very limited, and it was stated that due to the limited information provided, another notice would be sent when the additional details were available.

The obituary provided earlier today constitutes the additional information on Curtis's passing that was referred to in the February notice.

Sorry for the lack of clarity in the recent notice and any confusion to our members that may have resulted.
